*The Maritimo M54's where a model created at the end of the Maritim M50 era. This particular boat which is build 33, was originally badged an M50 like most of these models. There are 3 x Maritimo M54's in australia which have an extended cockpit, visble swansons on the hull sides which eccentuate the look and also have fold down steps on the standard platform. This does not have those options, but like most M50's is badged an M54 and advertised as one also. They are a bigger volume boat with bigger options (generator, inverter, beam, master cabin) than the M51, so the M54 ended up being a more suitable label for them even before the model increased in size.
